I have only used the SX and 2100 controllers. We have 6 Sabres all but one with the SX controller. The odd one is a newer machine and has the PC base 2100 controller on it. I do not think there is a lot of difference between the two, some of our manuals (the diagnostic one in particular) is for the "850SX MC" control.

Parts and repair is available on some of the Acramatic control series from Siemens who owns the product. Siemens can be contacted at 800-879-8079. It is true what peterson76 says in that these controls are old and access to components to repair is limited. If the iron is still good, a retrofit is an option which Siemens can help with.
