"Good God, Lousy World, and Me is what happens when a passion for justice is joined to a seeking spirit. Holly Burkhalter's work for a world that cherishes all people is undergirded by her faith in a God who does likewise. This is Christianity as we wish it could be." —Phillip Gulley, author of Living the Quaker Way

This is an important question to consider when pondering the existence of a good God when evil is so prevalent in the world. Is evil "bad" just because it causes discomfort and repulsion? If so, the act of a parent correcting a child is "evil." But of course a parent correcting a child is doing a good thing. But it feels bad. It causes discomfort and no child- nor any adult for that matter - likes correction.

I realized that my two choices—the existence of a loving God or the reality of evil—weren't the only options. Option three is that God is good and the world is lousy. But wait. There's more. God knows the world is lousy. Knows it, hates it, and wants us to do something about it..." —Holly Burkhalter, "Good God, Lousy World & Me"

Is God good? - The Forward

God is absolutely good. God's nature is holy and pure. He is morally good and just in all that he does and says. God has no sin and is morally perfect. God establishes the absolute good. God is the moral basis for morality. Without God, it is impossible to know the Good. Even when espousing moral claims, a person appeals to the existence of God.

God is the Good - Frank Turek

God made a universe that He could look at and call very good (Genesis 1:31). But God's "very good" isn't like ours. We're not talking just satisfactory. He meant that it was perfect—no death, no suffering.
