Management Information Systems

A management information system is made up of five major components namely people, business processes, data, hardware, and software. All of these components must work together to achieve business objects.

People – these are the users who use the information system to record the day to day business transactions.

The users are usually qualified professionals
such as accountants,
human resource
managers, etc.

Management

Information

(or information management systems)

are tools used to support processes, operations, intelligence, and IT.

MIS tools move data and manage information. They are the core of the information management discipline

and are often

considered the first systems of the information age.
